BLACK RACE SUITS.

The First October Newmarket Meeting brought a great reunion racing celebrities. Princess Mary was missed, as she is still in Yorkshire; Lady Carnarvon looked almost as well in a beige-red tweed as she does in her favourite blue; and Lady Evelyn Beauchamp was in smart black and white.

The Duchess of Newcastle and Mrs. Clayton looked very well in grey, with a good deal of blackin fact, there was a great deal of black worn, and very little navy, blue, or green. Lady Fitzwilliam added black touches to her green

The numerous flecked tweeds certainly make all tones possible for tailored suits; Lady Rosebery looked charming in a brown-andyellow fleck, but some of the smartest tailored ensembles were in black and white.

HISTORIC FASHIONS.

An interesting item in a clever Bond Street dress display in mail week were house frocks that would look charming in a country house for bridge and dinner-in reality, "period" dresses all representing certain historical celebrities and named after them.

Catherine Parr in silver tissue, Queen Anne lady demure in black velvet and lace, and the Empress Josephine in two fascinating shades of purple, though dignified, were attractively adapted modern needs.

In the same salons were some delightful house-afternoon and morning frocks of a practical order in black and mulberry cloth and crepe de Chine in all the oldworld .colours.

NEW NIGHT SHADE.

One of the culminating fashion points of the Autumn dress displays is a new night-time colour. "Just off the black" rightly describes this revival from Napoleonic days.

It is only when seen in a mass of chiffon and lace in deepest plum-brown beside an all-black toilette that one realises what distinctive colour it is. ..

The new shade was one of many successes at W. W. Reville-Terry's dress display in mail week, when mutton has not matured, but one many well-known dressers were does see, in soft fabrics like tulle among the audience.

CARPET GADGET.

Various ways of securing carpets and rugs have been tried, and the latest suggestion for a parquet floor to use a special screw. This device consists of a socket which screws down into a small hole bored n the floor, and a nail passing combined with slim simplicity. through the carpet and fits snugly into the socket. There is no serious damage to the floor, because when the time comes for the carpet to be long train of net bordered with removed, the hole can be filled with the suede-satin in a true lover's plastic wood and stained to match knot design, this being inserted. the rest of the floor

SLEEVE SURPRISES.

Sleeves are full of surprises. The effort to bring in the leg-ofand lace, occasional puffs at the wrist or elbow. The double captop is pretty for debutantes in chiffon or taffets, but the majority of the dress artis'es find the softer little capes, or deep berthas, arranged to fall limply over the arm, more graceful-and in accordance with a general slimness -a point that the "moderne" will never pretty notion for a black afternoon, frock is the idea of stripes of gold gauze and black braid forming a pointed collar and deep narrow cuffs. -

BRIDAL BEAUTY.

Possibly one of the most interesting points in the dress parades has been the novel ideas for the season's brides. White is the order of the day, but there are many shades in white,

A gorgeous gown in a very new fabric was shown at a display in old Bond Street in mail week. The satin was thick and soft, yet appeared like finest suede cloth of rich, creamy surface. Indeed, it might have been mistaken for velvet. This material, cut in princess form, suggested great dignity

The neck opening was bordered with a band of diamante; the long moulded sleeves were severely plain. From the shoulders came a embelished with tiny crystals and diamonds.

There is nothing "cheap" about the appearance of the new cotton frocks. But blouses are, perhaps, the pet garments in cotton. There is surprising excellence in the pale coloured lawn blouses which are worn tucked in or as over-blouses. They are well out and simply made. Perhaps the high shoulder yoke is continued to a large, floppy bow, or a high nack has a Peter Pan collar Coatees of cotton velvets are Lagrand belod, or cut with a fired hem-line and their neck yoken

NEW NECKLACES.

With the new necklaces, it often difficult to know whether the front, and indeed, it hardly the carpet, or upholstery. seems to matter. If your hair is long the clasp goes in front, and with a decollete frock the clasp should hang at the Originality is, expressed by a milanese cross of garnets set into a necklace of red beads. Two large lumps of amber complete a row of gilt beads, and there is a link of shagreen on another. Many of the strings of small beads can be wound around the wrist of forearm-in fact, jewellery is worn how you please. If you are different from your friends, you are right.

SOME NEW CHINA.

China is especially decorative if the rest of the table appointments are chosen to tone. A dinner set of vellow china has groups of old world flowers in blues, pinks and greens. Then, there is a charming "stock" pattern of ivory china, having a slender Greek key pattern, in gold around the edge. The modern liking for simplicity is exemplified in a dipper set of plain design, where a coloured rim tones with the neat the expanding principle, have deposy of gaily-tinted, conventional flowers in the centre of each plate.

HANDY "WASH" BAGS.

There is much to be said in favour of the new sponge bags made as ordinary handbags on strong frames. They are far tidier than the old Dorothy bag, and very much is of canvas, hand-painted, or held by straps inside the lid, prettler. Usually the outside cover stitched with mercerised threads, while the rubber lining is divided into many pockets with divisions for tooth paste, sponge, lotion bottles and so on.

THAT SLIM LOOK.

-It-is-good-news-to-realise that however big our collars and cuffs may be, or whatever new flares and flutes may be ingeniously introduced, we shall still retain a slim sheathed-like look, even in the thickest of cloth, tweed or fur coats. The usual dress under the useful black cloth coat is of black crepella, crepe de Chine, romaine, or . satin-charmeuse. Sometimes the thinner fabric of the dress has loth bands or wool embroidery, and a touch of fur to connect it with the outer garments.

White, again, is still the favourite alliance with black. but almost as gopular, and more cheerful for Winter - is brilliant dash of colour in the belt or tie. Green, and a minimum minimum minimum vivid blue, pink, or red, all work into a wintry scheme. The colour can again appear in the hat, a cluster of flowers worn on the Quality coat, and in the lining.

ORANGE LILIES.

At one of the smart dress parades in mail week a bride in a cream lace princesse frock, had a tulle veil and train bordered with the same lace, a vivid touch of colour being provided by a bouquet of orange tiger lilies.

White gloves and black gloves with white points were cleverly worn by mannequins at this show, especially with black-and-white schemes of velvet and white satin, and black chiffon and old creamy

A demi-toilette-in-black chiffon long, tight, transparent sleeves, but from the elbow to the cuff were rows of ermine tails.

USEFUL AND BEAUTIFUL.

New and elegant boxes are now used to keep one's shoes clean and tidy. They are often the smartest part of the wardrobe, being covered in bright cretonnes and brocades. The boxes have many divisions so that a number of pairs of shoes are held in place. Of course, the brothe cade should be chosen to harmonise clasp should go at the back or at with the hangings in the room, or

ALFRESCO.

Those who go plenicking by car are well catered for; there are cases for folding chairs and a table as well as the food; other large cases, on tachable fittings so that they can be used for picnics and ordinary travelling. But those without cars must pack their food even more carefully, and do away with superfluous cases and packing. There is a new, moderately-sized case which is lightly constructed, so that it is not unnecessarily heavy. On one side divisions will hold fruit, sandwiches, and so on. The thermos flask is

NEW CUNARDER.

DECLINE £4,000,000 LLOYD'S

It is disclosed that in spite of the Government's guarantee to assist liner none of the underwriters at Lloyd's has accepted any of the insurance on the vessel, and construction is at a standstill.

Messrs. John Brown and Co., the famous shipbuilders of Clydebank, repaired within two weeks .- Reunear Glasgow, informed the Daily ter. Express that they 'are "negotiating with the Cunard Line for a new liner contract, but nothing definite has been arranged yet." Inquiries at Lloyd's reveal that dispute is in progress among the underwriters themselves over the ntervention of the Government in the insurance market.

The Board of Trade has agreed "to undertake, at a premlum, such portion as cannot be accommodated by the market in the ordinary manner and at reasonable rates." This is the first time, apart from.

the four abnormal years of the war, that the Government has undertaken to give assistance in marine insurance.

Four Points. Lloyd's underwriters several points of view on the insurance of this great vessel, which is being designed to win back the blue riband of the Atlantic for Great Britain.

They state: 1. That there should be no State interference in the ordinary marine insurance market, which might eventually lead to complete Government control.

That they are not prepared to meet the entire risk, which may amount to £4,000,000 on one ship, because it would mean placing "too many eggs in one basket."

3. That vessels of such size and power are totally uneconomic and would operate for some time at a dead loss, such as the Europe and Bremen, which are largely insured in London.

That such a ship is nothing more than a gigantic advertisement for this country entirely out of proportion to its value.

The situation has been growing more serious with each conference of the marine branch of Lloyd's Underwriters Association. attitude of some important members is that the underwriters should simply take what cover they can comfortably and safely assume, and let the Government handle the remainder. This may mean that the State will find itself responsible for anything up to £3,000,000 of insurance when the new liner starts on her maiden voyage. "Let the Government once get caught out on a risk like that, ciation, and it will drop its marine insurance guarantees like a hot brick."

The attitude taken by the underwriters is severely criticised in i. some quarters, although their stand has not yet actually led to any definite protests.

Announcements of the plans for the ship have been made at intervals by the company since last spring, and after the announcement that the Government would assist in the insurance it was expected that construction work would start in July. various parts of the ship's equipment have been placed, the actual contract for the construction has not even been awarded.

The inability to effect insurance in the usual channels is understood to be the principal cause of holding back, direct employment for hundreds of men at the shipyards as well as the stimulation of innumerable industries that would supply the construction material. Insurance on a liner if such unprecedented size and speed the ressel will be designed to do more than thirty knots and will be of 75,000 tons—presents problems to the underwriters which they have never before encountered. The fact that there is only one ship of such size means that the insurance risk cannot be spread over numerous similar ships, all paying the same heavy premiums and thus "hedging" the liability in case of total loss. Insurance however must start sledar South wall from the date of the beginning of construction, mounting gradually as the ship takes form. When the wessel is launched

For many years past Boxing. it has been the ambition of the Amateur Boxing Association to have premises of its very own, and for that purpose a reserve fund amounting to some thousands of pounds has been accumulated bit by bitlargely from the annual championships during the time they have been held at the Royal Albert Hall The prospect of realisation of the A.B.A.'s ambition has been brought nearer by a legacy out of the estate of the late hon. secret ary, Mr. E. C. Hulin, who had been one of the oldest and most thusiastic spirits in amateur box-

It was Mr. Hulin's wish that the A.B.A. should have a home of its own, and by the terms of his will the residue from his estate, amounting to £522 15s. 9d., was left to the Association, with stock representing £927 2s. To this the Council has decided to add £1,500 and place the whole in a separate account to be called the New Premises Account.

A sword tossed by a bull from the mata-Fighting. dor's hand during tournament in the Tortosa Catuluna , ring, Madrid, flew through the air and, falling among the spectators, struck and instantly killed a young man of twenty-five. Two other animals had been dealt with by the matador and the third was nearing the end of its struggles when, in a last despair ing charge, it struck the weapon from its adversary's grasp: A spectator, who ran to the assistance of the fallen man, selzed the sword, but cut his hands severely.

The last big cricket match of the English Goose Match at Harrow, was played on the Sixth Form ground when the Geese defeated Harrow School mer from grief and worry, ball which jumped most disconcert. Spectators' efforts to dictate (ootball policies to directors by a boycott spread to Fulham, where a Boycott Association was formed.

The reason was because some thought the club ought to buy a new centre-forward, but the scheme collapsed when a crowd of ~15,000 turned up to see the match.

"Willie" Scott, .using Fishing. a hemp shark line and mullet bait, off South Reef, Australia, had a tremendous battle with an 18-foot swordfish. Weighing a ton and a half and with a sword about five feet long, this gigantic monster sped through the water for a mila before capitulating. Mr. Scott has caught approximately 60 sharks in the last four months. and he quickly realised that if it was a shark he had hooked it was easily the largest he had ever had on his line. The fight raged for half an hour, and as Mr. Scott was reaching the end of his resources the swordfish gave up the struggle. It was brought alongside the boat, and, after considerable difficulty, B noose was slipped over its tail, and it was towed to Manly. When the giant fish first took the bait the kellick of the boat in which Mr. Scott and his assistant, Harold Borthwick, were seated. was hoisted just in time, for the swordfish immediately commenced its run to sea, and would otherwise have dragged boat and kellick with it, or capsized the boat. It towed the boat for a mile before it surrendered.

"The apparent inferiority Golf. of English players in recent. tournaments," says "Bobby" Jones, "is due to the fact that it now happens that America has had a majority of good golfers over a stretch of years.

"One will have the upper hand for a time, and then the golf tide fortune is bound to turn."

Jones is a firm believer in professionalism in golf. Without professionalism," he said, "men would not have the opportunity of making an honest living at golf, and in their stead there would be a great many crooks falsely pretending to be amateurs."

THE WORLD OF BOOKS.

£32,000 EDITION.

"Only for Idiots and Speculators."

Mr. Bernard Shaw's complete works are being issued in a limited edition of 1,025 copies-30 volumes at 30 guineas, which means that a total o. £32,287 10s. is being paid for the books by the subscribers:

Mr. Shaw; according to an terview with the Observer, said "This edition is only for idiots? and speculators."

Perhaps Mr. Shaw will be bold enough to publish a list of them. In a new auto-biographical preface to the first volume, Mr. Shaw writes his life story with great frankness, from the time when he was in the nursery and painted his bedroom with frescoes of Mephistopheles, and later when he came to London at 20 after being a cashier at 18s. a month, till the period when he wrote novels no publisher would put into print. His Father's Habit..

Explaining his unsocial, and unsociable, outlook when he first came to town, he writes of his father that:

"Unfortunately . . . my father had a habit which eventually closed all doors to him, and consequently to my mother, who could not very well be invited without him. . . . . If you asked him to dinner or to a party he was not always quite sober when he arrived, and he was invariably scandalously drunk when he left. . .... We were finally dropped the final form (of prayers) socially.

"After my early childhood cannot ever remember paying a mother and father had dined out or gone to a party their children would have been more astonished than if the house had caught fire. My mother rescued herself from this predicament by her musical ism from theory to practice when a mild fit, which felled him on our door-step one Sunday afternoon, convinced him that he must stop drinking or perish.

"His reform came too late to ignorant of social routine." Manners.

Dr. C. Carlile, an ex-president as feeding them on sawdust." Intention."

of the Baptist Union, preaching at Folkestone, took Mr. Shaw to task for his frankness about his father's drinking.

. "It would be easy to forgive G.B.S. his manners if he had any worth talking about, but we prefer him without the family skeleton. Why should he exhibit his father's nakedness as an excuse for his own shortcomings?"

'To a News-Chronicle reporter who brought this criticism to hi notice, Mr. Shaw replied: "From his point of view I probably have not any manners. A Baptist minister's idea of good manners is probably not my own. I have been perfectly, frank about father. Anyone could find out all

Selling at 1,000 Copies A Week.

Mr. Thomas Wolfe," whose recently published "first" novel, "Look Homeward, Angel" (specially selected by the American Book Club), has been selling at the rate of 1,000 copies a week, was born in Ashville, North Carolina, i 1900, and graduated at Harvard in 1923. Mr. Hugh Walpole, who has lately been - pronouncing-in his somewhat pontifical manner-on prospects - of American literature, finds genius-a much term-in Mr. Wolfe's novel: "It does what I have for someone longing to .do hera (in 'America) it restores poetry to the American scene, and poetry that is not merely contemporary. The real richness of America, its fecundity, colour, vitality, stains deeply these pages." These encomiums are, on the whole, justifiable: there is, indeed, a surprising quality about the book, in spite of a certain immaturity of thought, and a, perhaps, too florid, or too great an exuberance of, style. The author wrote most of his books during' a sojourn in Britain; when he was on a lengthy visit to the scenes, not far from London, where his forbears lived, moved and had their being before they migrated to Pennsylvania nearly a hundred

In the preface to "Look Homeward, Angel," Mr. Wolfe emphasises the autobiographical nature of his work, concluding with the following words: "But we are the sum of all the moments of our lives—all that is ours is in them: we cannot escape or conceal lit. Ever since Nicolas Roschnoff, formerly a lieutenant in the Imperial Guard, left Russia in 1921 House of Representatives election, due to the death of the he has been in trouble with the authorities in . Western Europe. Twice a deserter from the Foreign

According to statement which he has made to the police at Algiers, Roschnoff went to Tunisia after leaving Russia, and remained there until 1923 under the name of Vladimir Osminine. "Then he set out for Paris. But as he passed through Marseilles he robbed a doctor, and he was arrested when he reached Paris. After a year in prison Roschnoff returned to Paris and enlisted in the Foreign Legion for five years under his own name.
